

What is a Bleeding Disorder?

Bleeding disorders, such as Hemophilia and von Willebrands Disease, are a group of disorders that share the inability to form a proper blood clot. These disorders can result in spontaneous and/or prolonged bleeding because a clotting factor protein, such as factor 8 or 9, is completely lacking or does not function properly. Treatment for hemophilia and other bleeding disorders is currently possible through intravenous infusions of the missing protein, most often with a factor concentrate, which can cost in excess of $250,000 per year! It is most commonly an inherited disorder but in one-third of the cases, there is no family history of the disorder and is simply a genetic mutation. Bleeding disorders can affect both men and women. Currently, there is no cure.

A bleeding disorder diagnosis can be more than many families can bear on their own. Because of TexCen, they don't have to.

Founded in 1965, the Texas Central Hemophilia Association, or "TexCen", is a private, non-profit organization serving those affected by bleeding disorders in North Texas. TexCen provides education, advocacy and support services such as summer camp, emergency assistance grants, scholarships, educational seminars, family events and an annual statewide symposium. TexCen also promotes research for a cure.

Greg McKinney was born in 1962 and diagnosed with Severe Hemophilia A. He had been hospitalized seven times before the age of 10. Greg was a graduate of Berkner High School in Richardson, attended Richland College and worked for Sears. Greg was diagnosed with HIV in January of 1987 due to the tainted blood/factor medication he needed for his hemophilia. He passed away March 26, 1989.

*This golf tournament was founded in 1996 by Kerry Brooks to honor the service and dedication of Greg's parents, Bill and Clara McKinney, and as a way to remember Greg.
